Our informant has told us that in one locality, where public works are in progress, the laborers were forced to examine a cabin at some distance, in consequence of the noxious and intolerable efflufive bodies in an advanced state of putrefaction know how to hive them. -the whole of a family, who had died, none

None of the laborers dared touch the boing on the work where they were compelled to earn their bread and chance of life, they pulled down the hovel, heaped timber and thatch over the blackened corpses, applied fire, and kept aloof until the dwelling and the dead were consigned to ashes. Such was the interment. This occured at a place called Ratoora. In another hovel were found the dead bodies of a father and son, and in the mouth fingers of which had been eaten off by his famishing offspring. It is our duty to publish these appalling facts. We have authentic ingo on with the relation.

Rome. - A letter from Rome, dated Feb. 28, says: "The birth-day of General Washington occurring last Monday, a grand banquet was held in the Hall of Bertini, at which nearly sixty citizens of the United States assembled, under the presidency of their Neopolitan charge d'affaires, Mr. Polk, junior. Thirteen toasts were gone through with republican vigor and perseverance, not omitting "a successful termination to the Mexican war, with three cheers for General Taylor." Judge Welborn, of Georgia, was eloquent in showing how a visit to Europe only made his own countrymen all the prouder of their domestic institutions. "Hail Columbia" and the "Star Spangled Banner" were performed on the piano forte by Mr. Karsten; and the American gymnast, Sig. Risley, (who has made a harvest in Rome) volunteered an appropriate dance.

THE PROVERBIAL POLITENESS OF STEMBOAT CAPTAINS .- The following story, which we find floating about, is "just the thing," in fact, it isn't anything else. A captain, justly celebrated for his urbanity, was hailed from the shore, between Baton Rouge and New Orleans, by an elderly female. The boat was brought too, and the Captain with the agility of a squirrel, leaped on shore "Captain," said she, as he obsequiously bowed before her, "my daughter, sick in New BOOTS & SHOES, Orleans, has just sent up to me for a dozen of eggs; and I just thought I would call and request you to carry them down to ---- street." " Certainly, madam, certainly," replied the

"By no means, madam, by no means," answered the obliging Captain; and the lady returned to the house to expedite the egg as soon as it should see the light. The Captain sat composedly on a piece of timber patiently waiting until the white hen had completed her labors, and the twelfth egg was handed him by a servant.

A New Drink .- "Mr. Guzzlefunction, I have discovered a new drink for you, suppose you try a little." "Well, I don't care if I do;" (drinks.) "It hasn't got a very bad taste to it, and if my memory serves me right, it is
